The center of thought has passed from the few to the many, and a great peaceful political struggle is now impossing in this is now impending in this country which is to decide whether the center of power snall be and remain there also. It has more than once seemed to me that I should have some part in this great contest when it came, but if that is not to be, I still hope I may be able to feel that I have done, not much, it is true, but yet something to put my day and generation forward at least a little and to better the con-

Lew Wallace, who is here on his way base and unmanly, and to official acts which I deemed heartless crimes, inofficials their mere tools. face of gross wrongs to the people among whom I lived. I had sat silent for tifteen years, and silenced often the right to speak: but, furthermore, from an impulse which I cannot define, or a reason which is too inscrutible to assign, I found myself unable to sit silent longer. The history of the four years of effort which ensued, by appeal to courts and public opinion I can not even now summarize; but, in this hour in which my name is being tossed back and forth by contending political factions and in which I have broken asunder the bonds of my perplexity and seen my way clear, I beg to say, in justice to myself and I trust with due mildness and without any egotism, that throughout it all I was never helped in money or otherwise by any politician or political organization or faction whatever, and that if in the end I finally prevailed, it was solely because the people, honest or unselfish understood me, and recognized that at all events I was trying to do right.

"Owing nothing, therefore, to politicians or political organizations, and remembering that whatever little I have done to lift the government up was done as a private citizen. I do not value any office so highly as to wish to achieve it against the oppo-sition of those whom I had supposed would be my friends. If I thought the withdrawal of my name would injure Senator Hill's canvass I would try to see some way to allow it to remain, for his recent development in the national senate places with the foremost public men of his day. Between him and his opponent, he should, and I trust will, prevail.

LIVE STOCK AND CORN.

Annual Crop Report Showing Averages In the Several States.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 .- The annual crop report on hogs, cattle and corn of Mallory, Son & Zimmerman gives the following averages:

On old hogs-Illinois, 79; Iowa, 76; Missouri, 82; Wisconsin, 69; Minne-sota, 86; South Dakota, 59; Nebraska, 35; Kansas, 61; Indiana, 88; Michigan,

Wisconsin, 23; South Dakota, 75; Nebraska, 52; Kansas, 55; Indiana, 32; Michigan, 52; Ohio, 44. The reports of correspondents on wheat feeding show that farmers to a large extent have tested the value of wheat (when ground) as food for all classes of stock and are using it freely and deriving benefits from its use that are surprising Many of the correspondents who have made scientific tests state that one bushel of wheat when ground and properly fed is equal to one and one-half bushels of corn, and as this is a year when it will have to be used to a large extent, it is apt to revolutionize the stock feeding business.

Another prominent feature of the report is the large number of counties reporting disease among hogs. In the eleven states disease is reported in 111 counties. There have been thousands of pigs from 20 to 140 pounds weight shipped from Nebraska and South Dakota into Iowa, Illinois and other states, and it is principally among these hogs that the disease started and spread to native hogs.

DEMAND FOR IRON.

It Seems Better Than It Was a Month Ago.

NEW YORK, Oct 5 .- Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: With the chief money crops of the West and South sinking in value it is not strange that purchases of manufactured products are smaller than was expected. Wheat has touched the lowest point ever known for options, and cotton the lowest ever known in any form with the present classification, and the accumulation of stocks in both products is discouraging to the purchasers for an advance. Producers are compelled to sell at prices below the ordinary cost of raising crops and in some Western states there is also a lamentable failure of the corn crop. Under the circumstances it would be very strange if the demand for manufac-tured products should be quite as large as in other years.

Wheat suffers from accumulation of stocks in sight, which are far beyond what is usually expected for the season and the exports in September were unusually small. For the first week of October Atlantic exports were 1,097,372 bushels, against 868,-746 last year; and Western receipts were only 4,615,600 against 6,130,687 last year and these figures give some encouragement, but little influence in view of the unusual visible supply.
The price for cash wheat is a small fraction higher for the week.
Corn receipts at the West have only been a third as large as they were last year, with exports amounting to nothing, but the price has not further declined after the heavy fall during the previous fortnight. Pork products are weak in tone, though only lard is quotably lower. The condition of the industries is in some respects more satisfactory. Evidently there is a larger demand for iron products than there was a month ago, although the increase in output has been somewhat greater than the increase in the demand, so that prices steadily tend downward.

Failures for the past week have 219 in the United States, against 320 last year, and 39 in Canada, against 45 last year.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 .- Reports are current that the erstwhile prominent Democrat, Judge Lyman Trumbull, in appearing as a Populist campaign speaker, is carrying out part of a deep laid scheme. It is asserted that, having made himself solid with the Populists, he hopes to be the choice for United States senator of such representatives as that party may succeed in electing to the Illinois legislature. It is not impossible that the Populists may hold the balance of power in the joint assembly, and it is claimed that Judge Trumbull sees in such a condition a chance to have himself forced upon the Democrats as a compromise, and Franklin McVeagh dropped as an impossibility.

"Recorder C. H. J. Taylor and his office continue to furnish topics of conversation," says a Washington special to a Chicago paper. "One of Taylor's sub-ordinates was arrested for using profane language at a street car transfer office. Today, when the case came up, the colored Democrat asserted that he was a preacher by profession, and hence could not be supposed to swear. The justice asked him how it was that when arrested he gave his occupation as that of a "politician." The answer has set the paler faced politicians in the department laughing. "You see, sir," said the de-fendant, "during times of political excitement I go on the stump, and in the absence of such excitement I preach the gospel." He was acquitted and the recorder of deeds and his preacher-politician subordinate left the court in tri- ville and Nashville Railroad company
